Using the business metrics we provide, we measure the value of Angie's list for your business, and gather insights into customer behavior. Some tasks and projects are just too big to handle yourself. If you're thinking of hiring a professional to help you, Angie's list might be a resource worth checking out. I recently created an account on Angie's list and asked for some quotes for a kitchen painting project — just to see how the process would go. You can also use Angie's List to connect with professionals in other areas, including car services, healthcare and more. In this article, I will take a closer look at what exactly you can do on Angie's list and how this resource can help you find the right professional for the job. What to know about Angie's list before you sign up if you need help with plumbing, roofing, house cleaning, pest control or something else entirely, you'll likely find a professional on Angie's list who can do the job. In addition to finding professionals and requesting quotes, you can also read verified reviews, browse available transactions in your area, and more. Before you visit the website or download the app, you'll save time if you read these four things on Angie's list: in each section below, you'll find detailed information about the services offered by Angie's list, what tools you can access for free, and how to get started. Angie's List is a website and app (iOS and Android) owned by ANGI Homeservices that allows members to explore, hire, rate and ply local service providers. You will find businesses and professionals specializing in more than 700 categories, including home repair, car and wellness services. In addition to hiring professionals, Angie's Aquarius offers online resources, including free expert advice at the site's solutions center. You can also watch videos to learn more about home improvement and DIY projects. Pricing Guide is another tool On the site and in the app. You can use it to see the average costs for certain types of projects. To use most of the features on Angie's list, including reading reviews and requests for quotes, you'll need to create an account, but it's free! 2. How much does Angie's list cost? There are three membership options to choose from. When you first create an account, you'll join the free membership plan in Green by default. With this situation, you can view nationwide ratings and reviews, access professionals on the service, and get a digital magazine. Silver companies cost $29.99 a year and gold companies cost $99.99 a year. Each option provides members with additional access to benefits such as a print magazine, a fair price guarantee, care support, an emergency service line and more. Annual Membership Program Cost Green Free Silver $29.99 Gold $99.99 Check out this page in the FAQ section to learn more about membership options, permissions and pricing. However, free membership is enough to gain access to ratings, reviews, and business information. Usually, that's all you need to make an informed decision about who to hire! While a lot of the company's resources are free, the professional you're looking to hire won't be. Prices for general contractor work and other services vary depending on the type, location and details of the work. You can use the pricing guide to get a general idea of what to expect, but the best way to get an accurate estimate is by asking for quotes from nearby companies. 3. How does Angie's list work? Angie's List works by connecting its members to local companies while providing access to verified reviews and ratings. You can use the service to compare nearby businesses, find discounts, read about other customers' experiences, request quotes and share your reviews. If you're looking to hire help for a project or service, Angie's list can be a great resource for finding contractors, freelancers, and recommended businesses in your area. To get started, visit Angie's list online or download the mobile app for iOS or Android. Although you won't be asked to create an account once you visit the website or download the app, I recommend protecting it. Creating an account is easy and free, plus you'll need to sign up before you can see business information from professionals in your area. To create an account, click More in the app or click the three dots in the upper-right corner of the website's home page to join. There are three main ways to find a professional using Angie's list. Look for a specific professional. If you're looking to read information or trusted reviews for a specific company in your area, you can enter its name in the search bar and see if it's on Angie's list. Search by category or project. If you're picking up quotes or looking to recommend companies, you can search based on your location and the type of service you need. You can type in a category, or browse popular categories. After selecting You will be prompted for specific information about your project. You'll then see a list of recommended businesses in your area. You can also find nearby general contractors by entering your ZIP. Browse transactions in your area. If you're on the website, you can scroll down the home page or click Store Deals to find coupons and deals in your area. If you're using an app, click More, and then browse the deals. From there, you can scroll through suggested transactions or narrow the results based on popular categories and project types. Please note that Angie's list makes money from company advertisements including coupons, discounts and other promotions. But to advertise, all companies must maintain an overall A or B rating on the site. When I visited Angie's list, I searched by category/project. I typed the service I was looking for and chose the most suitable suggestion: painting – face. From there, I answered some questions about the project before presenting the recommended service providers in my area. Keep in mind that to see any business information or read any reviews, you'll need to create a free account and be logged in. Collecting information and requests for quotes After you've found a company you want to learn more about, you can click on its name to view contact information, read customer reviews, and more. Each business has an overall score (A to F) based on customer feedback. For service professionals, it is based on price, quality, responsiveness, reliability and professionalism. For medical providers, the score is based on availability, office environment, demeanor, friendliness of staff, through the bed, communication, effectiveness of handling and billing/management. You may notice that some businesses are Angie's list certified. These companies pay to advertise their services and discounts to friends and will appear higher in your search results. They also met the following standards: maintaining an overall member rating of A or B remains in a good standing business with Angie's list passing a criminal background check and the Biennale (relevant owner or manager) indicates that they have the appropriate licensing to perform registered work and maintaining a verified company profile page in addition, businesses may display a super service award tag. These companies don't necessarily pay Angie's list for advertising, but they meet the following high standards: Maintaining an A rating remains in good business standing with Angie's Est undergoing a criminal background check (relevant owner or manager) indicates they have the appropriate licensing to do registered work after at least three reviews suggesting that the services were performed when it comes to customer feedback, Angie's list boasts of offering reviews that can be relied upon. The company says it is taking a number of precautions to ensure that at home they are not biased, including without anonymous comments and feedback validation. Once you've found some With good reviews and an A or B rating, start asking for quotes. You can click Request Quote on your company's profile page to start the process. You can also click See phone number in the About section of your company to call and request a quote directly. I decided to pick up some quotes through Angie's list to see what the process would look like. For my first quote, I went with one of the most recommended companies in the area. I provided a few more details about the project before I asked for the quote. I had to check a box confirming Angie's list, its partners and networks of their service personnel to provide marketing calls or texts about my project and other home service offers. As soon as I asked for the first quote, I was quickly able to flag other recommended businesses that sort me into bidding. Then, my information is sent to everyone at the same time. If you ask for quotes through Angie's list, you'll probably start hearing back from professionals within a day. There are several ways that service providers may contact them to contact you. You may receive a direct phone call from the company, a message through Angie's list or an online invitation informing you that they would like to bid on your project. Depending on your account's settings and preferences, you'll receive text messages, emails or other alerts when someone tries to contact you through Angie's list. Since I was looking for a kitchen painter, most professionals said they would have to send someone to the project site to give an assessment. If that's not the case for you, be sure to be as detailed as possible about your project to get an accurate quote. 4. How to cancel Angie's List If you have a free account and you subscribe to the Green Membership Program, you don't have to worry about canceling anything through Angie's list. If you have silver or gold membership, you can cancel online or by phone at any time. To cancel your online membership, sign in to Angie's list account, visit the Manage My Account page, and click Turn off automatic renewal. You can also call Angie's List at (888) 828-5478. Please note that you must submit your cancellation request no later than 17:00.m. Eastern Standard Time on Business Day before your renewal date to avoid payment. For more information about canceling your account, visit the company FAQ page. If you have invited a professional and need to cancel the project, communicate directly with the business/contractor you hired. Disputes are only handled through Angie's list of gold members. Overall, I think Angie's list is a great resource for anyone looking for a local service provider of any kind. It is easy to compare reliable businesses, local businesses and all necessary tools are free to use. After creating an account and asking for some quotes through Angie's list myself, here are the biggest pros and cons I've found... Price. No need to pay for Companies. Reliability. You can find reliable businesses in your area, read verified reviews and write your own. Comfort. The mobile app has all the main features and is very easy to use. Additional resources. You can watch videos, read expert tips, and use the pricing guide to plan ahead. Spam. You can expect to receive emails about related services from a list of Angie's and her partners. Quotes come in different forms. If you're asking for quotes through Angie's list, you may hear back from the companies in a number of different ways (messages, text messages, emails, calls, etc.) useful. The website can be intimidating/difficult to navigate for new members. If you're looking for a contractor or service provider to hire, here's my advice: Use Angie's list to find professionals in your area, read reviews and collect business information. Once you've decided on several companies you're interested in, call them directly. That way, you can discuss your project or work and ask for a quote yourself. It also allows you to keep all your information in one place as you move on to the next phase of the hiring process. Have you ever hired a professional you found on Angie's list?
